BOCA RATON HISTORICAL SOCIETY HOLDS TEA: AN ELEGANT AFFAIR

BOCA RATON, FL, June 15, 2010 -- The Boca Raton Historical Society held a Moroccan-themed tea at the magnificent home in the Polo Club of Nicole Lamy of Alcary U Home. Attendees learned about the mission and objectives of the Historical Society, as well as exciting volunteer opportunities from President, Debbie Abrams.

Highlights of the tea included lavish flower arrangements and a vast array of colorful vases on the main table, all arranged artfully by the hostess. Moroccan decorations were featured throughout.

The Historical Society is seeking volunteers to join the Boca Bacchanal committee and help with what is considered the food and wine weekend of the year for South Palm Beach County. Other committees that need additional members include the Boca Bacchanal Oktoberfest, a celebration of German beer, wine and food to be held this fall. Volunteers are also needed to lead historic tours and help with children's programs.

The tea was catered by The Mad Platter. Guests feasted on Irish cream cranberry scones with strawberry jam, lemon curd and Devonshire cream, as well as a wide assortment of tea sandwiches, pastries, and, of course, fabulous teas.

Attendees included Boca Raton Historical Society Board Members Joyce Devita, and Elizabeth Grace and Executive Director Mary Csar. Casey Cole and Timolin Cole also joined in the festivities.

Nicole Lamy is the founder of Alcary U Home. Bringing a fresh, sophisticated eye to every project, Alcary U Home creates urbane interiors and stylish events with a touch of glamour for modern sophisticates in South Florida and beyond.
